The Meeting.

The protracted meeting in prog ress at the Methodist Church continues to grow more interesting at almost every service. Several have made professions of religion. A great many seem unusually interested, and have asked for the prayers of the Church. Rev. L. R. Amis, the pastor, is doing the preaching and has made some grand efforts, and has endeavored especially to wake up the church-members who "are taking their ease in Ziou." Rev. Mr. Beville has given seving talks, and performed other in- hausted. valuable work, in addition to his untiring efforts in training the choir, and leading in the singing which is the best, probably, that

Savannah has ever had. All our people should attend these services and get the benefit of them. People living in the country should come in and hear the singing and get a shower of the blessings of these services.
